United Kingdom	Expect Delays	PHL: 10+ days ORD: 12+ days LAX: 13+ days	Royal Mail, wishes to provide other Union member countries and their designated operators with updated information concerning rolling postal strikes in November 2022. The strikes will affect postal services on the following dates: 04.00 on Wednesday, 2 November to 04.00 on Thursday, 3 November – all network operations; 04.00 on Thursday, 3 November to 04.00 on Friday, 4 November – all collection, processing, distribution and international operations; 04.00 on Friday, 4 November to 04.00 on Saturday, 5 November – all delivery operations. Royal Mail will implement extensive contingency plans (as follows) to minimize disruption during the industrial action and will continue to do all it can to support customers as far as possible: All mails for the UK should continue to be sent as normal. For inbound air services, the London Air Mail Unit will be operational and will continue to accept and process all inbound arrivals. For inbound road services, the International Logistics Centre (ILC), the Heathrow Worldwide Distribution Centre (HWDC) and Parcelforce Worldwide's Coventry International Hub will all remain open and be fully operational; Each of these sites will continue to carry out customs clearance and processing activities as usual. The UK's delivery operations will be affected on days when strike action is taking place. Despite the contingency plans, it will not be possible to replace the daily efforts of the entire frontline workforce. Royal Mail will do what it can to keep services running, but there will be significant disruption on the days of the strikes; All Union member countries and designated operators should therefore expect to see some delays in items sent for delivery in the UK; With regard to exports from the UK, all Union member countries and designated operators will continue to receive export mails from Royal Mail Group, including Parcelforce, as usual. Export volumes may temporarily be lower, but arrivals will continue as normal. Please visit www.royalmail.com/latest-news for up-to-date and detailed information on services.	12/1/2022
Uruguay	Expect Delays	10+ days	Uruguay's post has taken steps to minimize spread of the coronavirus (COVID-19). Staff numbers in postal facilities are being reduced as far as possible, and teleworking introduced where feasible. Direct physical contacts are being minimized. Post offices with large numbers of customers are being kept closed with special collection points set up directly with customers. These measures, along with the suspension and reduction of international flights and connections, will impact inbound and outbound postal operations and delivery.	12/1/2022

United Kingdom	Expect Delays	10+ days	Royal Mail, wishes to provide other Union member countries and their designated operators with updated information concerning rolling postal strikes in November 2022. The strikes will affect postal services on the following dates: 04.00 on Wednesday, 2 November to 04.00 on Thursday, 3 November – all network operations;  04.00 on Thursday, 3 November to 04.00 on Friday, 4 November – all collection, processing, distribution and international operations;  04.00 on Friday, 4 November to 04.00 on Saturday, 5 November – all delivery operations. Royal Mail will implement extensive contingency plans (as follows) to minimize disruption during the industrial action and will continue to do all it can to support customers as far as possible: All mails for the UK should continue to be sent as normal. For inbound air services, the London Air Mail Unit will be operational and will continue to accept and process all inbound arrivals. For inbound road services, the International Logistics Centre (ILC), the Heathrow Worldwide Distribution Centre (HWDC) and Parcelforce Worldwide's Coventry International Hub will all remain open and be fully operational;  Each of these sites will continue to carry out customs clearance and processing activities as usual. The UK's delivery operations will be affected on days when strike action is taking place. Despite the contingency plans, it will not be possible to replace the daily efforts of the entire frontline workforce. Royal Mail will do what it can to keep services running, but there will be significant disruption on the days of the strikes;  All Union member countries and designated operators should therefore expect to see some delays in items sent for delivery in the UK;  With regard to exports from the UK, all Union member countries and designated operators will continue to receive export mails from Royal Mail Group, including Parcelforce, as usual. Export volumes may temporarily be lower, but arrivals will continue as normal.	12/1/2022
